An Invitation from Vacationland

✓ WHAT do you ask for your vacation? ¶ In Maine and in the White Mountains of New Hampshire there is everything anyone could desire. ¶ All the natural beauties of two continents brought together into a limited space. Nature and man have cooperated in arranging the perfect play place. ¶ Tranquillity, sunshine, virgin forests, healthful climate, placid lakes — lakes teeming with fighting salmon, togue, bass and trout — streams to explore with canoes, high mountain peaks to climb, violet tinted hills in the distance. Ever-changing moods of the broad, open Atlantic — fury, the calm. Fishing boats, luxurious yachts, cruisers, ships, pass in review. Sandy beaches, rocky shores, azure skies, balmy air, smart summer hotels, cozy little cottages beside mirrored lakes, farm houses and small inns — accommodation to fit any purse. ¶ This section of New England is "Vacationland" the year round.

Come Early This Summer and Stay Late

MAINE CENTRAL RAILROAD

Cooperating with The New England Council

FOR CONVENIENCE it is well to divide Vacationland, the all-year-round playground of New England into three parts, namely The Maine Coast, Maine's lakes and woods, and The White Mountains of New Hampshire.

The Maine Coast

MAINE'S SEACOAST comprises half of the tidal coast line of the Atlantic, exactly 2486 miles of sandy and rocky shores, inlets, coves, harbors, and bays, stretching from Kittery at the New Hampshire boundary to Quoddy Head on the foremost eastern end, if measured by its indentations. The distance between the two above extremes "as the bird flies" is only 278 miles.

Sandy beaches, high rugged cliffs, rock bound promontories, green slopes thick with pine and spruce; picturesque harbors, beautiful bays and islands. Peaceful nooks for summer homes, camps, bungalows, inns and hotels. Gay regattas, deep sea fishing trips, bathing, steamer rides, yachting, offer much to the visitor who prefers the tang of the salt air. Cool ocean breezes blended with odors of spruce and pine, give a new hold on life to tired city dwellers. The Yorks, Ogunquit, Kennebunkport, Wells Beach, Cape Porpoise, Old Orchard, Biddeford Pool, Scarboro Beaches, Casco Bay, Bath, Wiscasset, Popham Beach, Pemaquid, Monhegan, Newagen, Boothbay Harbor, Squirrel Island, Southport, Christmas Cove, Capitol Island, Penobscot Bay, Camden, Vinalhaven, Rockland, Islesboro, Castine, North Haven, Bar Harbor, Northport, Deer Isle, South Brooksville, Bucksport, Mount Desert Island, Winter Harbor, Seal Harbor, Frenchman's Bay, Petit Manan, Machias Bay, Passamaquoddy Bay and Grand Manan are among the popular summer colonies easily reached.

Dividing the coast line into regions we have The Beaches, Casco Bay Region, Boothbay Harbor Region, Penobscot Bay Region, Frenchman's

Bay Region and Washington County — Way Down East.

All along Maine's coast are many historic points of interest and summer homes of famous persons.

Maine's Lakes and Woods

THERE are ten inland sections of Maine, including Belgrade Lakes Region, Rangeley Lakes Region, Moosehead Lake and Jackman Country, Upper Kennebec Country, Mount Katahdin Region (Baxter State Park), Aroostook County, Central Maine, Washington County, Androscoggin, Oxford and Franklin Counties, and Sebago Lake Region, Naples and Bridgton Country. At all of these inland sections are crystal blue lakes, towering hills, lofty mountains, sparkling brooks, hotels, camps and resorts, boys' and girls' summer camps where you can play golf, fish, hunt, hike, swim and rest.

The White Mountains of New Hampshire

THE MAINE CENTRAL RAILROAD serves the White Mountain region of New Hampshire directly through the famous scenic Crawford Notch. There is no better way to view the White Mountains than from trains as they wind along the side of the mountain ranges, true moving pictures of panoramas unequalled this side of the Rockies. Cool invigorating mountain air where hay fever is unknown, delightful summer hotels, sporty golf courses, scenic drives and fishing are but few of the opportunities for sport and recreation. Cloud-piercing peaks; deep, narrow gorges, flumes, valleys, lakes, streams, waterfalls, and dense woods make this territory a land of heart's desire to the lover of the out-of-doors. Such sections as North Conway, Jackson, Crawford Notch, Bretton Woods, Fabyan, Whitefield, Colebrook and Dixville Notch are famous as summer resort colonies.

✓ Stream Fishing

MAINE'S FISHING cannot be beaten. Inland streams, ponds and lakes offer trout, togue, salmon, black bass, perch and pickerel. You can use flies, troll, or plug. There are hundreds of small streams far back in the "wild lands" where you can fill your creel any day during the open season.

Trout usually rise best to the fly in early summer and the latter part of September from lakes and ponds, and during mid-summer the best fishing is in deep water where they are caught by trolling.

Maine with its 5000 lakes and streams can be divided into nine great fishing districts. Each one of these districts can in turn be divided into many subdivisions. Much of the northern, central and eastern part of Maine is an angler's paradise with vast areas almost virgin country. No other sport takes quite the same grip on a person as fishing. Place yourself in the position of the hero of this true "fish story" and consider what such an experience would mean to you.

"Suddenly, a few rods away, the placid surface of the lake was broken by a quick swirl and splash which told of the presence of a big fish," he remarked as he leaned over the table of his metropolitan club. "Two or three casts of the fly, and in an instant, with a ferocious rush, a magnificent speckled beauty had hooked himself firmly. A dash to the right, a rush to the left and then a series of struggles in which he behaved not like a captive firmly held but like three fish on a wild carousel, and then sulkily, he settled to the bottom of the lake. It was a contest — and not an unequal one at that — between my brain and hand and tackle and the power of those strong fins, the savage instinct of self-preservation and the lightning quickness of the fish yards deep below our keel. Again he rushed frantically from side to side and again made for the bottom as the line spun out. A few moments of quiet showed his determination to stay there, but the inevitable persuasion of the faithful rod again proved too much and straining my tackle, I brought him up once more. Soon a commotion on the surface of the water showed that the critical moment had arrived. His back fin erect as ever, there was a magnificent trout, apparently husbanding the last remnant of his strength for one final dash for freedom. A turn of the wrist brought him slowly toward the boat — when 'splash' the landing net in the hands of the capable guide caught him and landed him still fighting in the boat. Dextrously the guide caught him, knocked his head on the gunwale of the boat, slipped into his mouth a pocket scale, squinted at it and let out a long whistle. 'Wal —!' he declared. 'Eight pounds, seven ounces!'

"I sat back as the guide rowed for camp. I had won a victory that required the very best I had in me. Now I could relax, review the battle and look around me. Slowly the sun disappeared behind the great mountain to the west, empurpled by its level rays. Silently but swiftly the shadow of its crest sped across the water and the perfect peace of a still evening settled on the surface."

Maine Offers You Just Such Experiences

● SWIMMING

YOU CAN SWIM to your heart's content in Vacationland in fresh water, salt water, tempered pools or swimming tanks in de-luxe hotels or if you prefer in some sections you can find the "old swimming hole" down on the river bank. There are so many ponds, lakes and streams in Maine that whichever place you select for your vacation there will be an opportunity to swim.

● CANOEING

HUNDREDS of streams and rivers emptying into ponds and lakes are ready for you to explore with canoes. You can travel for miles through a chain of lakes with new sights to see at every twist and turn. Maine is certainly a canoeist's delight. Just a glance at the map is proof of this statement. Some of the more important canoe trips in Maine are the Machias Lake trip, the St. Croix trip, the Belgrade Lakes trip, the historic Pemaquid trip, the Passadumkeag River trip, the Upper Kennebec trip, the West Branch cruise through Penobscot East Branch waters down the Allagash, the St. John trip, the Connecticut River trip in Northern New Hampshire. All through the summer are delightful times for canoeing. In the fall a hunting trip by canoe in Maine is a vacation long to be remembered.

● HORSEBACK RIDING

FOR THOSE who enjoy horseback riding miles of beautiful bridle paths lead through groves of evergreen and silver birches. Others skirt the sparkling waters of lakes, or over hills that open beautiful vistas as you mount them. Many resorts maintain their own stables with riding as a part of the regular daily diversion. There are countless places in "Vacationland" where you can enjoy horseback riding. The picturesque roads through the woods are well adapted to this sport as you canter along with a band of pleasant companions, possibly your objective being a repast amidst the piney fragrance of the woods.

● PHOTOGRAPHY

A CAMERA RECORD of your vacation trip will recall pleasant memories and many happy hours spent, beautiful views of the "big one" getting away, a picnic, hike, or possibly a deer fording a mountain stream. All these pictures will be worth while for your "mem." book. Every fall hundreds of hunters armed with cameras only go into the woods to photograph wild game, some with movie cameras, others with still cameras, but all seeking a memento of happy days "Down Maine" or in the White Mountains.

● ARCHERY

ARCHERY is fast becoming a popular sport in this section, especially at some of the higher class hotels and camps. Regular contests are held with targets set up out-of-doors. It is good fun and takes practice to make perfect.

● SALMON FISHING

AT CALAIS on the St. Croix River are taken sea salmon ranging from five to thirty pounds in weight. The take of these Atlantic salmon from the famous Bangor pool in the Penobscot River has been unusually good the last two seasons, again justifying the name it has won in the past. The first fish taken from the pool in the spring is customarily sent to the President of the United States. At Dennysville too there is good sport angling for these monsters.

● AQUAPLANING

AQUAPLANING — that is, trailing along the wake of a fast motor boat, is popular. You need plenty of room for a spill and the thrill is a different one than you can imagine. When you feel like "showing off" to your fellow guests at some of the hotels this summer select either Moosehead, Belgrade, Rangeley or Sebago where aquaplaning is most popular.

● TENNIS

TENNIS is popular and courts are well kept at the majority of hotels. International matches are held each summer at Squirrel Island, Bar Harbor, Lucerne-in-Maine, Belgrade and Rangeley.

● ART SCHOOLS

ALONG THE COAST especially in the Boothbay Harbor section are several art colonies where students assemble for summer school to paint artistic marine and nature paintings. There are other colonies at Bar Harbor, and in Washington County.

● DANCING

DANCING may be enjoyed at practically all resort hotels and each section boasts a casino with nationally known orchestras furnishing lively music.

● MOTORING

THOUSANDS OF MILES of good highways lead from railroad centers to remote sections of Maine and New Hampshire. As a rule the roads are in good condition and macadamized most of the way with the exception of secondary roads leading to inland lakes.

● DEEP SEA FISHING

THE TUNA caught in the waters of the Gulf of Maine is called locally "Horse Mackerel" but it is identically the same kind of fish caught in the waters of the Pacific Coast as well as in the waters off the English Coast and called a "tuna" or "tunny." The interesting comparison is that whereas in Pacific Waters a tuna of 250-pound weight is often-times a record breaker, this same species of fish in Atlantic Waters weighs anywhere from 500 to 1500 pounds, and the smaller ones of 250-pound weight are not generally regarded as worth mentioning. Most of this tuna fishing along the Maine Coast has been by the use of harpoons but several sportsmen from New York and other places have been coming to Maine the past three or four years to do their tuna fishing with regulation Catalina Island Club rods, reels and lines. Of course there is always good fishing for pollack, mackerel, cod and halibut and other species of salt water fish. Fishing off the rocks for cunners is good sport, too.

● AND LOBSTERS

IT MAY BE that you believe you have reached the ultimate in delicious macrurous crustaceans (which is short for lobster) when some high-salaried chef in New York, Philadelphia or Washington has served you a "broiled live." But you've never really "eaten" a lobster until you have tasted one fresh from the sparkling, cold waters along the Maine Coast. You'll find dozens of places in Maine where the lobster fishermen deliver at your door lobsters that an hour, or less, before were in their natural habitat — dripping wet, fresh and green.

Twenty minutes in a pot or a like period over a hot coal fire and, boiled or broiled "that's lobster." Almost any moonlight night you'll find "lobster boils" at some rocky point where a gay group is gathered around a blazing fire. Suspended above it, on sticks, pots boil. A lobster fisherman — "chef" for the evening — watches the pot, fork in hand. "They're done" and out on the rocks he tosses lobsters, piping hot. Sweet, tender and fresh. You'll eat them until you wonder why one lobster ever seemed enough.

● BOATING

A POPULAR DIVERSION always, in all sections. Maine's inland lakes are dotted with boats of every description from the "Cornpopper Navy" to the larger and more pretentious yachts. Motor boats have increased in number remarkably in the past few years, without seeming to diminish at all the popularity of sail and row-boats. Speed boat regattas are held each year at various summer colonies, both inland and in the picturesque harbors along the coast. The Bar Harbor section, Penobscot Bay, Boothbay Harbor and Casco Bay are all popular coast resorts for boating enthusiasts. Belgrade, Sebago, Rangeley, Grand Lakes and Moosehead Lake, as well as hundreds of smaller inland lakes, are ideal waters for canoes, outboarders, speedboats and cabin cruisers.

● GOLF

DON'T FORGET YOUR GOLF CLUBS when you come this summer. In Maine alone there are more than two hundred delightfully fascinating courses and as many more in New Hampshire with new courses being built and old courses being improved each year. You can tee off from a green located right at the edge of the blue Atlantic, or in the shadow of lofty mountains far inland or from the shore of a beautiful lake nestled in the pine clad hills. If it is golf you want, we have it, and some of the most sporty courses in New England, most attractive and interesting with reasonable green fees. Many of the courses are beautifully laid out on rolling country and considered second to none. Club houses are attractive. You will love the greens and fairways. Tournament days are very popular. For a list of some of the courses in "Vacationland" please turn to page 42.

● MOUNTAIN CLIMBING

WHO CAN SAY they can view a mountain without experiencing a burning desire to ascend its peak to see what is on the other side?

The highest mountain in Maine is Mt. Katahdin, 5,276 feet above sea level. Other mountains in the Rangeley region and Dead River section and Moosehead Lake territory range from 1,000 to 2,000 feet above sea level. In the White Mountains of New Hampshire there is the famous Mount Washington shooting straight up 6,293 feet above salt water, offering itself as a challenger of your courage and strength. The sport of mountain climbing is increasing year after year and is beneficial to one's health as well as thrilling. During July and August it is not uncommon to see parties of 25 or 50 or more hiking to the summit for a day's outing. Hundreds ascend on the famous cog railway. There are mountains along the seacoast too, Camden Mountain overlooking beautiful Penobscot Bay and Cadillac Mountain on Mt. Desert Island in Acadia National Park, near Bar Harbor. Almost every mountain has its trails, well trod or axe-marked — often many, many miles.

● MOOSEHEAD LAKE REGION

HERE IS THE BIG WOODS Country with picturesque Moosehead Lake, the largest lake in the state of Maine, and famous Mount Kineo, the Spencers and Squaw Mountains, sparkling lakes, fighting fish, silver streams, seemingly untraveled until your canoe parts the way, virgin forests on every side, supreme natural beauty of lake, mountain, and sky, unmarred by man, a place for relaxation, freedom, abandonment. No hay fever known, altitude over 1000 feet.

The region is ideal for beautiful sails on the lake; canoe and camping trips; motor boating, picnics, and hiking. Large trout (square tails), salmon, and togue are caught throughout the vacation season.

Shady bridle paths;
golf on nine-

hole course at The Mount Kineo
and tennis; walks through the woods. All of these activities are available.

Of all the Maine fishing resorts, Moosehead Lake is one of the most popular, and its popularity is well deserved. This lake is at once the greatest and among the most beautiful of the many hundreds in the Maine forests.

Spring and Summer fishing for square-tail trout, salmon, and togue is hard to beat in the Moosehead Lake Region. This region is one of the best in Maine for big game hunting during the Fall.

● UPPER KENNEBEC COUNTY

BINGHAM, a thriving industrial community, is the connecting point for much near-by sporting territory. Carry Pond Camps at Carry Pond, Sterling's Pierce Pond Camps at Pierce Pond; Hotel Sterling at Caratunk and Troutdale Camps at Troutdale, are popular among the many woodland retreats in this section.

At Troutdale is famous Lake Moxie, nine miles long. From here are reached many popular fishing and hunting sections.

● JACKMAN REGION

TO THE WEST of Moosehead Lake country lies the Jackman Region, dear to the heart of the hunter and angler. This section is extremely well watered, being the site of the Moose River chain of lakes, consisting of Holeb Pond, Attean Pond, Long Pond and Brassua Lake, with many smaller but none the less important bodies of water on either side. The territory is served by the Canadian Pacific Railway, and is bisected by the Benedict Arnold Trail leading from Southern Maine to Quebec. In this country trout up to five pounds have been taken and land-locked salmon and togue abound.

● RANGELEY LAKES REGION

OF ALL THE BEAUTIFUL resort sections in Maine, Rangeley is outstanding. High, blue mountains, silvery lakes, dark-green forests. In all Maine there is no place quite like Rangeley.

Here are the Maine woods in which are set like jewels five great lakes, abounding in big square-tailed red-spot trout, and salmon to make any line sing when the strike is made. Here you roam and explore Lake Moose-lucmaguntic, Upper and Lower Richardson, Umbagog, Rangeley Lake, Kennebago Lake, and the others; here you live fifteen hundred feet above sea level where the morning air is fresh and clean, safe from hay fever; where sunshine, water, and forest combine to make the perfect vacation.

The Rangeleys have everything for everybody, but they have most for those who love the out-door life in which figure most largely guides and guns, fly rods and canoes, and bacon, trout, and coffee sizzling over a fire in front of a camp.

● BELGRADE LAKES REGION

BELGRADE LAKES consist of a chain of seven lakes closely connected: North Pond, East Pond, Great Pond, Long Pond, Salmon Lake, McGrath Pond, and Messalonskee Lake, varying in size from a few miles in length and less than a mile in width to Great Pond, containing over twenty square miles.

Winthrop, Maranacook, Readfield, Monmouth, Belgrade, North Belgrade, and Oakland have long been known as summer outing places in Maine.

All along the shores are hotels, camps, and cottages built among towering pines. Summer camps for boys and girls are ideally located on practically every lake. Fish abound in the lakes, bass, pickerel, perch, trout, and salmon being caught in large numbers. Here in the Belgrades is the best small-mouthed bass fishing in the world. Fly fishing for bass begins the latter part of May and continues through June into July. Sandy beaches permit excellent opportunity for bathing. Everything for the comfort and convenience of the tourist is to be had. More than twenty-five hotels, inns, and camps accommodate from two to three thousand guests each year, and more than a thousand boys and girls "go to camp."

● ANDROSCOGGIN, OXFORD AND FRANKLIN COUNTIES

COMPLETE COMFORT, relaxation, and rest, with the marvel of "food from the farms" near-by to add zest to appetites sharpened by the open air.

Fresh-water swimming, boating, fishing, motor boating, hikes, picnics, tennis, and golfing. Play at the exclusive 18-hole Poland Spring Course if you want.

Poland Spring, situated in the southeastern corner of Poland, is one of the most famous summer resorts in Maine, with seven beautiful bodies of water touching and included in its borders. In the vicinity of Poland are several summer camps for boys and girls, and hundreds of city youngsters spend their summers on the shores of near-by lakes.

One will soon be infatuated with the superb view of that wonderful country panorama that stretches unbroken to the White Mountains of New Hampshire.

Oxford County has long been known as one of the scenic regions of New England. The "Oxford Hills" is a by-word of comparison in thousands of homes throughout the country, and the magnet that draws hundreds of southern New England and New York people to Maine every summer.

Lewiston, famous for its textile mills, is in the heart of the picturesque Androscoggin Valley.

Lake Anasagunticook, in the town of Canton, is one of the Androscoggin Lakes in a picturesque setting among the Oxford Hills which offers special attractions. There is good bass and perch fishing in the lake.

● MT. KATAHDIN REGION

MT. KATAHDIN (from the Indian Ktaadn, the preëminent) is the monarch of Maine mountains. Thrusting its spruce clad slopes and rocky summit a mile into the clouds, this giant of the East is the first spot in the United States to greet the morning sun.

While nearly a thousand climbers yearly gaze upon the 200 lakes visible from Katahdin's top "like fragments of a broken mirror scattered over a green plush carpet," thousands of others are content to fish and hunt, camp and tramp within the shadow of this mighty mountain whose praises have been sung by men of letters for generations.

Ten miles on the base and 5,672 feet in height, Katahdin, the sentinel of Maine, is the eastern rim of the Penobscot West Branch and Sourdnaunk River basins.

A large area which includes Mt. Katahdin, is known as Baxter State Park — a game sanctuary for all time and a breeding ground that makes the land adjoining the 12 mile square preserve one of the finest game territories in all Maine.

Here are dozens of trout-filled, gem-like lakes set in the forest — new worlds for the intrepid fisherman to conquer. The big and small game hunter will find here his conception of paradise. Deer, moose and other wild life are seen daily to the delight of the nature lover and camera sport.

● THE BEACHES

YOU'LL ENJOY a vacation where ocean breezes temper the air and make cool, delightful days. Here you can spend carefree, sunshiny days of fun and frolic where there is no end of summer sports. Those who love that mysterious and ever beautiful wonder, the sea, with bathing on glistening white beaches, the grandeur of its rugged shore line, its sheltered bays, flying surf, and scalloped scenery, will find happy days along the coast at Old Orchard Beach, Kennebunk, Ogunquit, Wells Beach, and York Harbor and other places.

Old Orchard Beach — where the waters are bluer and the sandy beaches harder than anywhere else — is world famous. No similar extent of beach here or abroad can for a moment excel this stretch of clean sand and combing surf. There is no finer and safer bathing beach on the Atlantic coast. Several hotels and many fine summer homes mark the commanding viewpoints along the shore.

Ogunquit Beach is a spot unexcelled for scenic beauty.

Its surf and rocks have been painted by the greatest marine painters. Bathing, sailing, fishing, motoring, golf, and tennis are the principal pastimes in this summer colony.

● PENOBSCOT BAY REGION

LOCATED about midway between Kittery and Lubec on the coast, Penobscot Bay thrusts itself inland from the ocean for thirty miles as far as Bucksport, where it narrows to form the mouth of the Penobscot River. Its widest expanse, between Rockland and the southern end of Deer Isle, is about twenty miles.

Here are moonlit stretches of the open sea; beautiful estates; historic Fort George; the famous Camden Mountains; Grindel Point Light — here are long evenings before the open sea; quiet hours in the sunshine and water. Here are rest, relaxation, and the utter freedom of the out-of-doors.

The larger islands in the bay include Islesboro, the most northerly; the so-called Fox Islands, North Haven and Vinalhaven; Deer Isle and Little Deer Isle; Isle au Haut; and, farther seaward, the plantation archipelago of Matinicus and Criehaven.

Outstanding among its summer resorts are Camden, the city which has benefited so greatly at the hands of wealthy summer guests; Northport; Dark Harbor, Castine; South Brooksville; Sargentville; Eggemoggin; Deer Isle; Sunset; North Haven, summer home of the Lindberghs and Morrows; Vinalhaven; and Isle au Haut.

● BOOTHBAY HARBOR REGION

SIGHT-SEEING in plenty, the old Block House at Edgecomb used against Indian attacks, the Marie Antoinette House at Wiscasset, the Indian Shell Heaps at Damariscotta, Fort William Henry at Pemaquid Point, the U. S. Fish Hatchery, the U. S. Life Saving Station, the site of the ill-fated colony of Sagadahoc founded in 1607—then the lovely Isle of Monhegan, rising ten miles out to sea with Manana, its offspring, a mere lump of rock lying beside it.

Here is a harbor dotted every day with fishing vessels from the "Banks," palatial steam yachts, cabin cruisers, speed boats, and tiny steamers busily plying between the island colonies and Boothbay Harbor. This region includes East Boothbay, Bayville, Southport, Linekin, Ocean Point, Christmas Cove, Isle of Springs, Bath, New Harbor, Newagen, Sebasco Estates, and others all having the same scenic characteristics.

Fresh sea food daily at hotels and inns; garden produce from rich farms near-by; and excellent hotel accommodations. Here is a summer colony of more than 20,000 people brought by the promise of comfort, enjoyment, food, and natural beauty.

Here in the Boothbay Region you ride horse-back, golf, play tennis, hike, dance, row, swim, taste the thrill of deep-sea fishing; here you find salt-water swimming pools, archery, talking pictures — a delightful combination of sports, social activities, and natural beauty.

● CENTRAL MAINE

LYING at the confluence of the Penobscot and Kenduskeag rivers, at the head of tide water, are the cities of Bangor and Brewer. Bangor is the gateway to the North Woods and the direct trail to 1200 miles of seacoast. Its population is 28,701. The city itself is a recreational center. Nearby are sporty golf courses, canoe clubs, the famous Bangor Salmon Pool, municipal swimming pool, and the immediate surrounding country is literally filled with small lakes and streams, where may be caught in both summer and winter, a variety of fish — land-locked salmon, trout, togue, bass, and perch.

The coast provides deep-sea fishing. The city boasts an airport where regularly scheduled stops by planes from Boston are made. It is a convenient railroad and motor coach terminal for points north, east, south, and west.

Between Waterville and Bangor is a region fast developing as a tourist section. Burnham, Pittsfield, Hartland, Harmony, Newport and other towns offer good accommodations. There are scores of good lakes easily reached, where good fishing may be found. The natural beauty of this entire region is worth seeing.

● WASHINGTON COUNTY — WAY DOWN EAST

WASHINGTON COUNTY is one of the best fishing and hunting sections of Maine, rich in history, romance and superb scenery. A network of rivers, lakes and streams in the midst of primeval forests invites you. Truly a paradise for the sportsman. Such a variety of natural beauty crammed in a single section! Such a setting is ideal — for those who love the glorious out-of-doors.

From Bangor to Mattawamkeag, the Maine Central Railroad closely parallels the Penobscot River. The general direction is northeast. At Mattawamkeag the road proceeds in a more easterly direction and passes into Washington County, where some of the wildest country east of the Rockies is encountered.

Between Kingman and Vanceboro lies a sporting region still unspoiled by the casual tourist. It is from Kingman that "Dobsis" or Sysladobsis Lake is reached. This is one of the upper bodies of water in the renowned Grand Lake System where fishing and hunting are unsurpassed.

Forest Station on the Maine Central is the "stopping off" point for travelers going to the Grand Lake section. It is only a short distance by motor across country to the sporting camps on the Lake and Grand Lake Stream. In the "big lake" is wonderful fishing for Ouananiche or land-locked salmon and trout. Spednic Lakes, Machias Lake (the headwaters of the Machias River), Mopang Stream and Nicatous Lake are well known waters and popular with the sportsmen.

Tunk Lake, formerly known as Tunk Pond, with attractive camps frequented by well-known people, is a popular center of sport. On Grand Lake Stream the highest angling ethics prevail; the dry fly is used and the daintiest of tackle. In the lakes, the best fish are taken by trolling with live bait or small spoon-fly.

Vanceboro is the terminus of the Maine Central and located on the banks of the St. Croix River. From Vanceboro, good fishing and hunting sections are easily reached. Across the river is McAdam Jet. in New Brunswick. From there the Canadian Pacific Railway takes you to the Maritime Provinces and Nova Scotia.

A person making a circuit tour of Washington County detrains at Vanceboro, motors to Calais, thirty miles distant, and returns to Bangor via the shore route of the Maine Central. On or near the coast are the towns of Eastport and Lubec, the most easterly cities within the borders of the United States, and the first to greet the rising sun which comes up like a ball of fire bursting out of the depths of a vast Atlantic; Machias, noted as the place where the first naval battle of the Revolution was fought; Jonesport, the home of "Seth Parker" of radio fame; Cherryfield, Milbridge, Petit Manan and other points possessing a diversity of scenery and other attractions typical of Maine's sea-coast towns.

● SEBAGO LAKE REGION NAPLES AND BRIDGTON COUNTRY

FROM PORTLAND to the White Mountains the Maine Central Railroad passes directly through this region.

Sebago Lake, only sixteen miles from Portland, is one of the best-known lakes of Maine to anglers who want to catch landlocked salmon. On the shores of Sebago and neighboring lakes and ponds are hotels, cottages, and camps of all sizes, and for a summer outing no better section so near to Portland can be suggested.

Naples is a popular resort for a summer's outing with every facility for enjoying fishing, golf, camping, boating, bathing. About Long Lake are many accessible streams and ponds where fish are plentiful.

Raymond, on the shores of Sebago, is a typical Maine village, poetical in its setting of ancient elms — quiet, restful, and attractive. It has good accommodations for tourists and offers plenty of wholesome outdoor sport.

● PORTLAND AND CASCO BAY

PORTLAND is the largest city in Maine, with a population of over 70,000. Portland not only has metropolitan hotels, fine stores, theatres, and all the advantages of a large commercial city of high standing, but located on the shores of a beautiful arm of the sea, with its summer days cool and delightful, and the nights refreshing to a high degree, Portland is a city in which it is a delight to live for a day or a lifetime.

Casco Bay — this vast expanse of water, sheltered by the verdure-clad islands, which shut out the boisterous sea, forms a summer rendezvous for thousands of rest and recreation seekers.

Steamer trips down Casco Bay covering a few hours or an entire day enable Portland visitors to partake of an excellent shore dinner at one of several stops, and enjoy diversions among surroundings unexcelled in beauty on the North American Continent.

● ACADIA NATIONAL PARK

WALTER EMERSON once said, "If there is any place in the world where the natural and cultivated have been so effectively combined as to produce one beautiful whole as on Mt. Desert Island, it is yet to be described to me. There is not a square rod on this wonderful island that is not beautiful, that is not endowed with the best that Nature has to bestow." Acadia National Park is the only national park on the Atlantic Seaboard. It comprises about 15,000 acres with several thousand acres held in trust for future expansion of this great scenic playground which is thrown open to the public, although motors are excluded from many of the horse roads and bridle paths. Across the bay about 1500 acres on Schoodic Point are included in the Park limits, an area of rockbound shore typical of Maine coastal scenery. Days may be spent in exploration, yet the guest would still find something new to bring to each adventure the zest of the explorer seeking after new marvels, the same broadening horizon that beckoned Champlain when he explored the island in 1604 and gave it the name of "L'Isle des Monts Deserts."

Cadillac Mountain in the Park is the highest point of land on the Atlantic Coast, rising from the sea to a height of 1525 feet. A new motor highway to its summit has recently been completed and traverses a distance of three and one-half miles. This road, built by the Government, is worth while ascending, as the views from the summit can be obtained in no other way except by flying over the same country in an airplane.

On clear days one can look across Maine to the White Mountains of New Hampshire and north to Mt. Katahdin. Hundreds of islands along the rugged coast of Maine are in the panorama from the summit. The Appalachian Mountain Club has realized for many years the rugged beauty of Cadillac, and the other mountains of the island, and members form pilgrimages each year to climb Saint Sauveur, Norumbega, Huguenot Head, Flying Squadron, and Champlain. Hardly a day passes but parties climb these mountains for the magnificent views which may be obtained upon the top.

Sieur de Monts Spring housed beneath a beautiful canopy stands sentinel at one of the entrances to Acadia National Park, and a drink of its clear refreshing water, which bubbles through white sands from subterranean sources, is most refreshing. From this point the climb of Flying Squadron is made.

Through the generosity of distinguished summer residents there has been constructed here a system of more than fifty miles of horse roads, from which motors are excluded, giving opportunity for riding and driving that has no equal in America. There are several good riding schools with horses for hire.

Its geographical location and climatic characteristics make it an ideal bird sanctuary. The island, itself, is a veritable network of beautiful drives where, with infinite variety, a meadow vista with a deer feeding quietly in the background gives place abruptly to a bold rocky precipice, or a crescent-shaped sound where the famous Captain Kidd may have keelhauled some mutinous seaman, or buried his pieces-of-eight.

PROCTOR HOUSE, Naples, Maine

The main house, a few of our cottages and shore of lake

● For twenty-five years a summer resort hotel located on the shore of the Bay of Naples on beautiful Long Lake in the Sebago chain, twenty-eight miles from Portland on direct route to the White Mountains.

● We have everything that you could ask for to make your stay a pleasant one and we endeavor at all times to live up to our good reputation of being hospitable to our guests. Our main house is not a pretentious one with metropolitan appointments, but IS attractive and neat with electric lights, running water and is comfortably furnished.

● If you enjoy fishing, tennis, golf, bathing, swimming or hiking there is NO place quite like Proctor House. There is always plenty of life and good wholesome fun. Many young folks as well as older guests visit us annually. Pure spring water adds to the health and happiness of our guests. We also have individual bungalows, cottages and cabins. We can accommodate 100 guests.

● Our prices are reasonable. We will gladly furnish you references or any information about how to reach us. We would sure like to have you with us for a day, a month or a season—you won't regret it—I'll be looking for a letter. Address Charles W. Proctor, Proprietor, Naples, Maine.

A group of our guests gathered together right after breakfast on a sparkling summer morning. Note the happy smiles. A photograph similar to this could be taken any day during July and August. It is not exceptional.
